

Conference organising committee: Dr Elizabeth Pearson, Dr Akil Awan, & Dr Ieva Cechavičiute

ROYAL
HOLLOWAY
UNIVERSITY
OF LONDON

C V T R C
CONFLICT, VIOLENCE, & TERRORISM
RESEARCH CENTRE

Credit: Hufton + Crow/Colorminimum

Society for Terrorism Research

17th International Annual Conference

The Future of Terrorism Research in a Multi-Crisis World

The Society for Terrorism Research (STR), the School of Law & Social Sciences at Royal Holloway, University of London and the Conflict, Violence and Terrorism Research Centre (CVTRC) are delighted to announce that the 17th annual STR conference will be held on July 7th and 8th, 2025, on the University's historic Egham campus.

In an era of global conflict, great power rivalry, state violence, polarisation and political volatility, this conference aims to consider both the raison d'être and future of terrorism research in the context of overlapping global crises. Participants are invited to identify the key evolving topics and debates of this multi-crisis era, particularly in light of emerging hybrid terrorist ideologies and terrorist use of technological innovation and AI. In the process we hope to identify new and emerging research agendas, synergies and collaborations, in addition to showcasing cutting-edge research.

The full call for papers will be released shortly.

July 7-8, 2025

Optional excursion 9 July

Royal Holloway,
University of London,
Egham Campus

For more information email:
STR2025@rhul.ac.uk
Dr. Elizabeth Pearson,
Department of Law & Criminology
Royal Holloway,
University of London
Egham, Surrey, TW20 0EX